August 28—Another year of school, more homework, beginning to worry about grades again, but . . . there are all my friends. I wonder what we'll be doing this year.

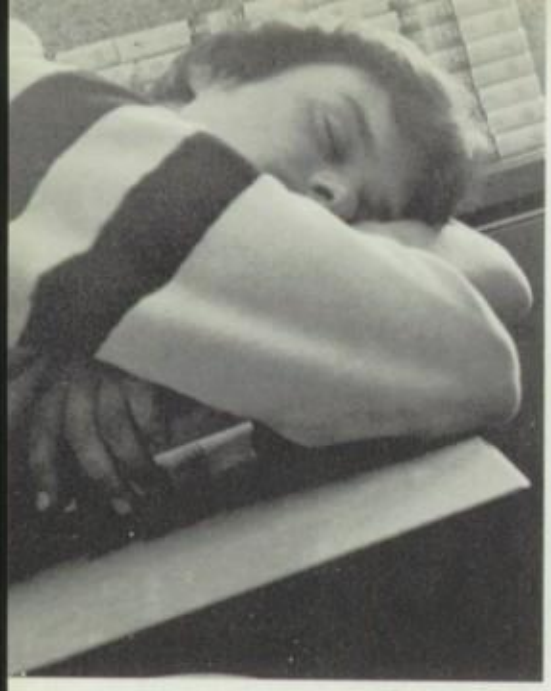
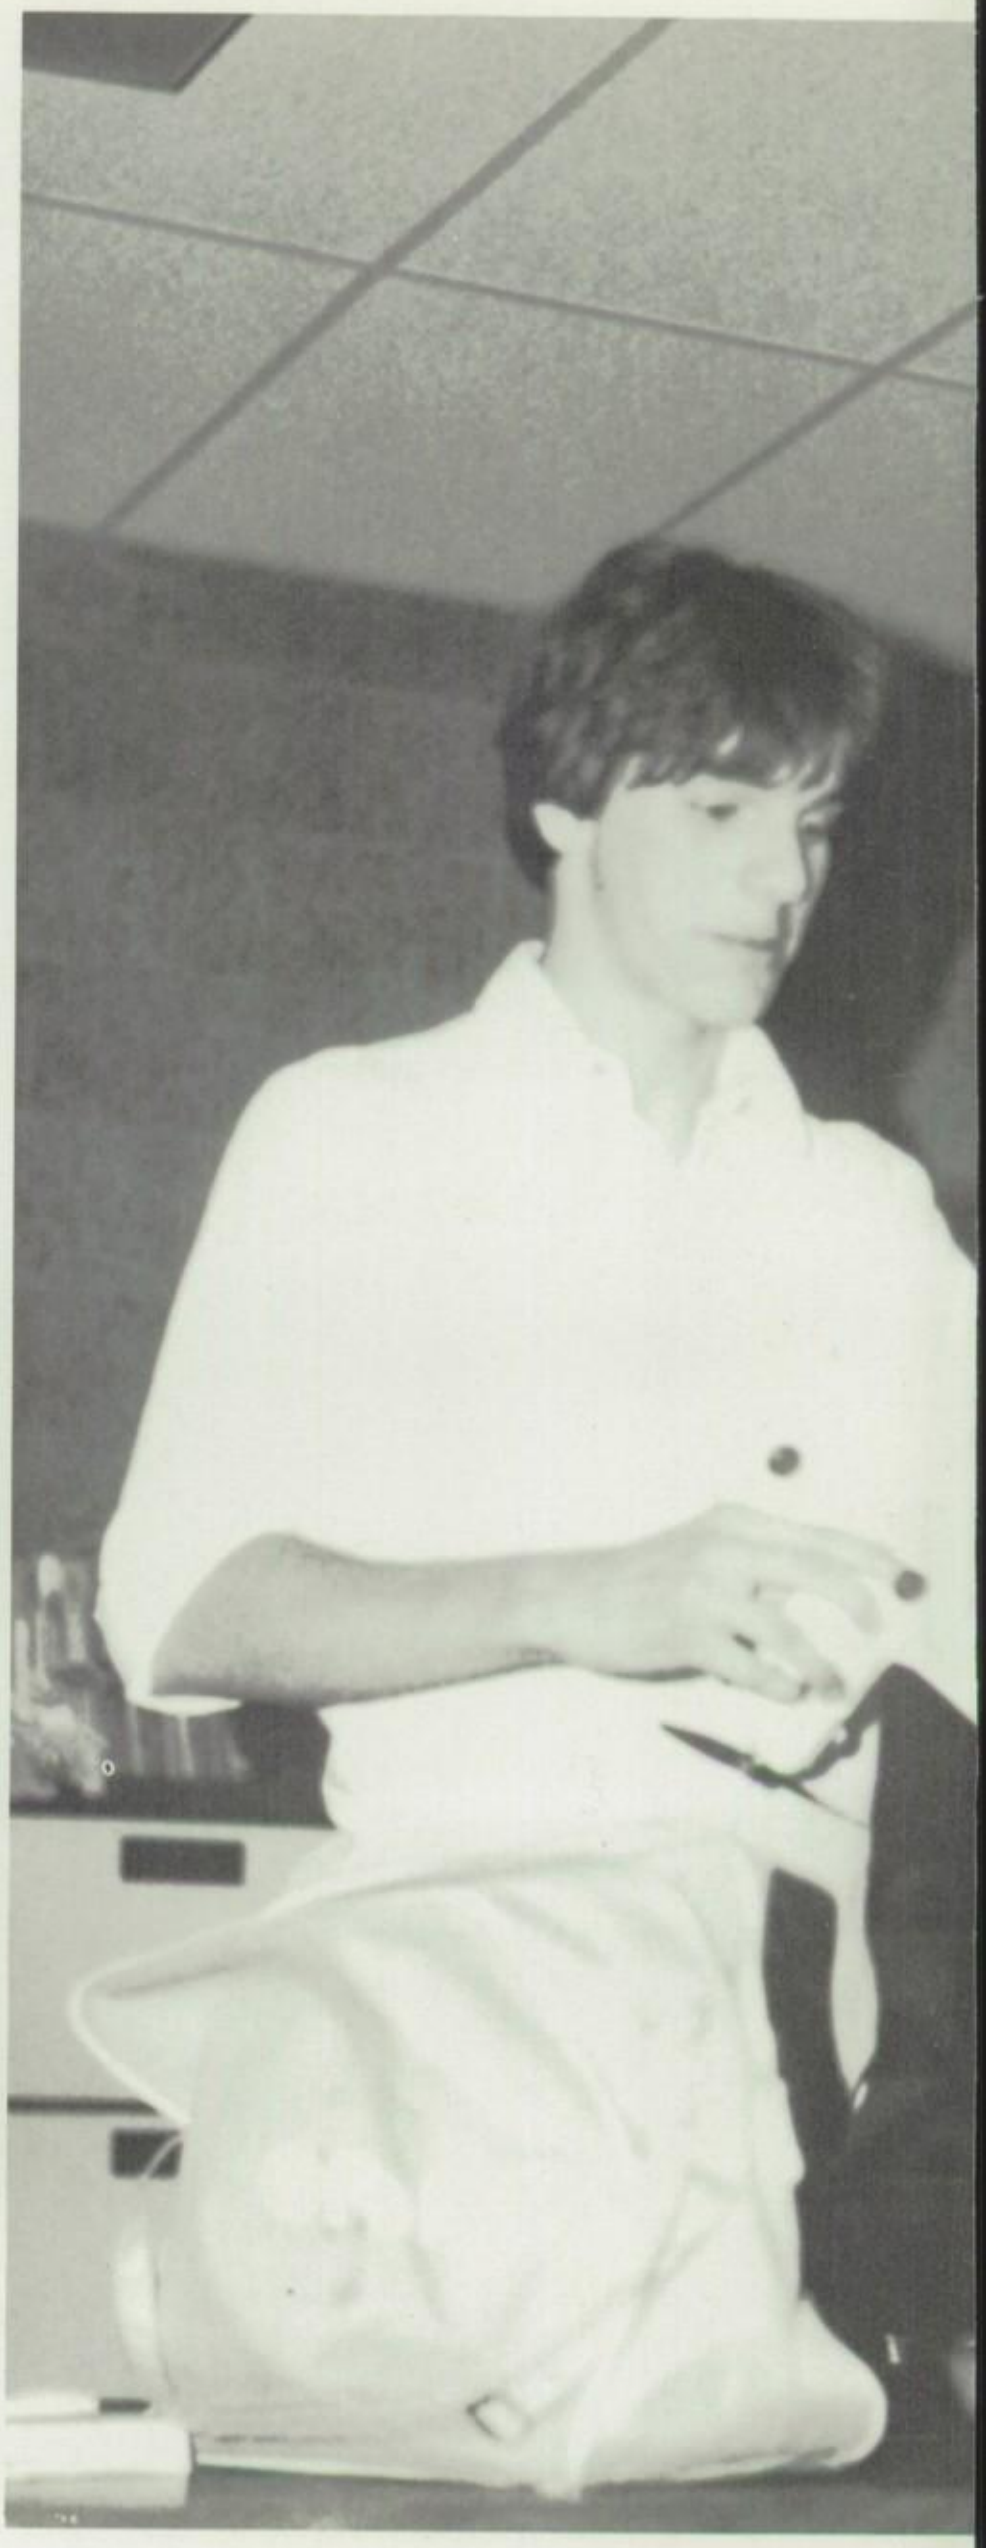
Hebron High School

South Main Street

Hebron, Indiana 46341



Is it school already? Boy, did the summer go fast! I hope I don't get stuck with one of my old lockers. I never was able to get them open. I bet the Freshmen feel strange being in high school after junior high. A whole new world has opened for them. They have a lot of new friends to make, clubs to join, subjects to take, and sports to participate in. There are a wide variety of dances to go to, fund raising projects, banquets and ballgames, homecoming, and of course, the event everyone looks forward to—the Olympics where all classes compete against each other. But high school isn't always fun and games. More work is demanded of everyone. There are subjects that you are required to take, homework becomes a fine line between pass and fail, classes are more complicated, and schedules are set up for planning the future. So like everything else, high school has its ups and its downs.



Alex Purevich and Donna Baltas appear to be cementing Jeanne Dolasinski in a tub. Actually, they are mixing clay for clay sculptures.

Ready for take off, Jerry Fankhauser gives a speech in speech class.

What It's All About

You're up when a teacher says you have the highest score in class, but down when you find out it was a D. A team is up when they beat the first school they've played, but down when that's the only team they've beaten. The girls are all up as Prom approaches, but the guys are all down as they get rejected. A class is up when they've managed to come in fourth in the Olympics but down when they realize only four classes competed. And so the year goes . . . one gigantic teeter-totter.

I guess the most exciting time is the last few months of the year. Summer comes, and with it a desire to cut classes and soak up the sun. However, Seniors are busy getting ready for Commencement and are almost as excited about their Big Day as they are about their open house, while the Juniors are busy planning the Prom. Even if your class has no special project to do, final exams keep everyone busy as the underclassmen know.

A Little More

November 4 - after going to see the play, "Agatha Christie Made Me Do It," and then out for pizza afterwards I got home kind of late. But, it didn't matter anyway because I hadn't been out too much lately. Oh yeah, except for the Hallowe'en Concert I played in which was a howling success, (ha!ha!). Oh well, things will really pick up now. There's the soap game coming up on the tenth, and basketball season is right around the corner. Homecoming will be here before I know it, so maybe I'd better rest up while I've got the chance.

Nada Vasiljevic smiles in relief as she arrives in class just under the wire, and she realizes she has escaped getting a detention for being late.

With high hopes of winning the hall decorating contest are eighth graders Mary Beth Thomas and Jan Mitch.

Caught in the act of being in the school after hours because of having to paint posters for the Junior class is Jack Pier.

A lot of kids did some dreaming on the band trip to Florida and now we know what Marla Terpstra dreams about.

Mark Dinsmore, president of the National Honor Society, crowns Laurie Fisher Homecoming Queen.

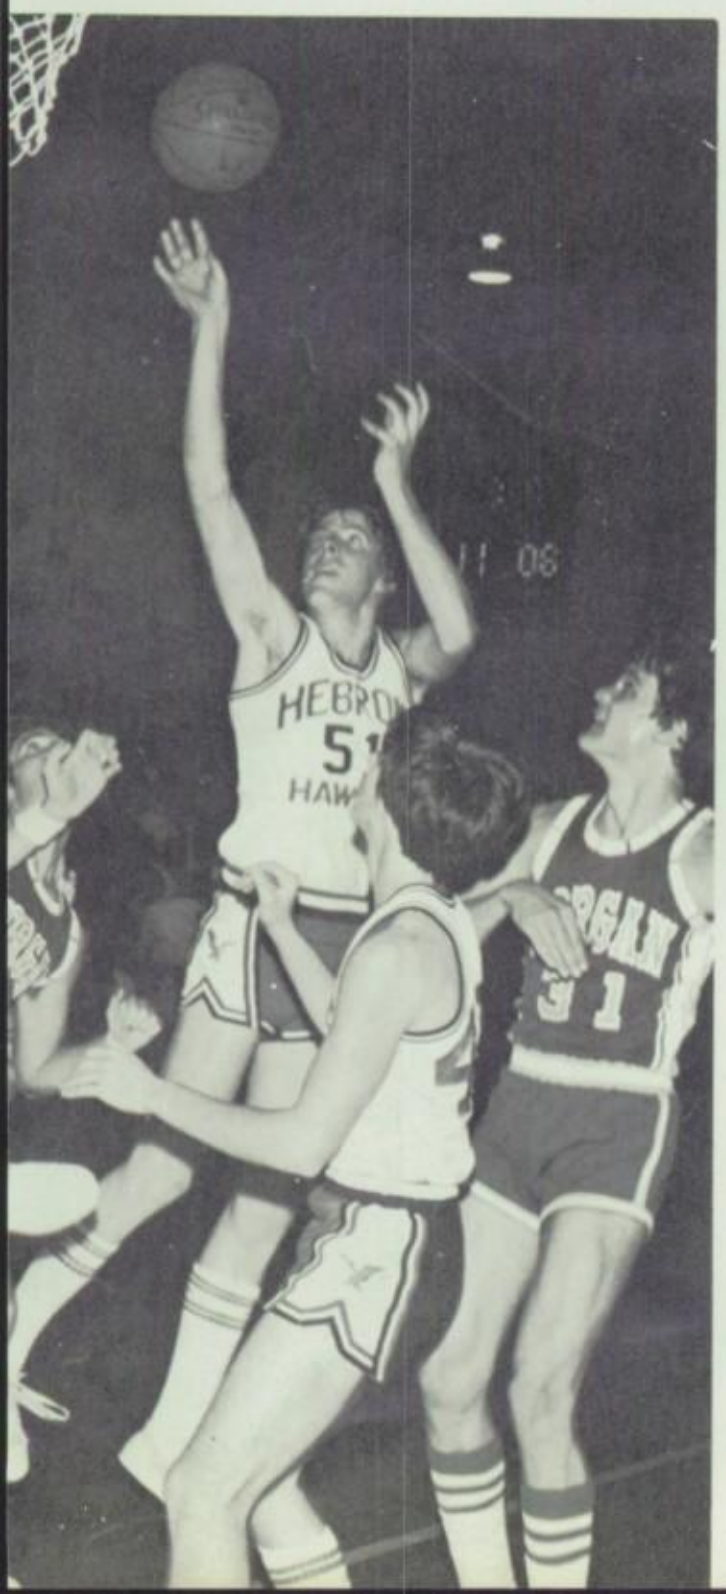
Included in Homecoming festivities was a Baby Face contest in which contestant 2 took the title.

The J.V. and Varsity cheerleaders show their acting ability with a skit for the Homecoming festivities.

All through the halls . . .

Twelve days before Christmas and all through the school, students were breaking most all of the rules. The halls were decorated with patience and care, in hopes that the judges soon would be there. The seniors were in their long johns and the sophomores with their pets, the juniors in their suitcoats and the freshmen in their sweats. When in the gymnasium there arose such a clatter, we sprang from the bleachers to join in the chatter. Then on to the contest which began with a flash, between the seniors and freshmen there was a good match. At the end of the day when the school bell had rung, the crowd cleared away . . . Yes! the seniors had won! Hard feelings were gone, of those there were none, but left were memories of a great day of fun.



The court for the king and queen sit and await the outcome of the game.

The atmosphere was right with yelling cheerleaders, screaming fans, and a team who wanted to win. There's no way we could lose.

During the Homecoming game, Dave Pogue attempts to add another two points to the score.

Student Council presented three convocations throughout the year. The students gathered in October to have their mind boggled by O.G. Fitzgerald. The memory expert showed his talents by glancing at a dollar bill and having the serial number memorized. He also tried to teach us his procedures and called on certain people to recite the number. Mr. Fitzgerald proved one of his theories by memorizing the names of all the students in Mr. Lawson's class.

A second convo was given in December by the Great Gilberto's. The gymnastic family from Belgium performed various acrobatic flips and one climbed to the op of a tower balanced on wine ottles, glass plates, and chairs.

In April, an actor named Fallon Woodland put on a Shakespear-an play. He used four volunteers rom the audience. Premiering heir acting talents were Debbie evrio, Tim Busker, Curly Edson, nd John Levrio. Debbie's job was o provide the moonlight by keeping her arm raised while Tim had to roar in order to get the part of the lion. Curly was chosen to be the wall, and he did a great job of chinking. Last but not least, John was voted the best person to play the dead body. Mr. Woodland answered questions about careers in acting and stayed after to talk to drama students.

Curly didn't have to go to China to learn to be a chink in the wall. Fallon Woodland and Curly Edson.

Classroom Relief: Students Relax With Convos

School Isn't Everything

There's a rumor going around that life exists outside of school. Once out of school, interests vary from riding dirt bikes to flying airplanes. Some of our students love to compete and some love to entertain. Walter Michalowski and Chuck Ventura got a rock band together, and enjoy entertaining others with their music. Alan Kirkpatrick has an interest in architecture and has won an award for his designs. Talking to some students at Hebron High School becomes fascinating when you find out what they do for entertainment or self-satisfaction.

Wes Gilson has been watching too many movies. He doesn't know it, but the plane is self-starting.

Jerry O'Neill is off to work with his father in his landscaping business.

Debbie Lewandowski puts the finishing touches on the mural she painted on their garage door.

In her spare time, Heidi Van Sessen trains her horse to be a champion.

Campus Life, one big happy family, poses for a group shot at one of their meetings at Diane Kuhn's house.

Jeff Patz practices a song for his debut on Saturday Night Live.

The Long & Winding Road

As the highlight of the prom, Greg Steffel and Laurie Fisher are crowned king and queen. Mr. Lord's sons carried the crowns on velvet pillows.

After a hard night of dancing, Linda Wagoner and Jerry Fankhauser make themselves comfortable with a glass of champagne. Whoops! That's 7-Up!

Debbie Levrio and her date gaze at the decorations outside the cafeteria before entering the prom.

Craig Stonehouse and Laura Weaver are just one of the many couples dancing and having a good time on the exciting prom evening.

Place: the cafeteria, Scene: the prom, Atmosphere: sheer excitement! This was the feeling carried throughout the Jr.-Sr. prom. There were people laughing, acting camera shy, and all in all having a good time. "The Long and Winding Road" theme was carried out by a mural drawn by Jack Pier and Debbie Lewandowski. The room was decorated with Roman pillars and fencing intertwined with rose vines. White streamers covered the ceiling of the seating area, while blue streamers and a gold disco ball hung from the ceiling to define the dance area. Decorating crews stayed until 1:00 a.m. Friday night in order to complete the decorating. Music was provided by "Brandy Creek" from Rochester, Indiana, for the approximate 230 in attendance. The highlight of the prom was the crowning of Greg Steffel and Laurie Fisher as king and queen.

Ability & Efforts Prove Rewarding

You did it, and you did it well! The reward for a job well done is a pin, plaque, or certificate that announces to the school that you were the best. Some people seem to make a path to the awards table receiving honor after honor, and some people get the surprise of their life when their name is announced, but everyone is proud and smiling when they accept their award.

The Fortnightly Scholarship was given to Laurie Fisher and Dave Pogue received the Jaycee's. Mr. Lord received the "Dog of the Year" award from Mrs. Welge who had just received the "Clown of the Year" award from the drama club because she was retiring. At the Athletic Banquet, special plaques, created by Mr. Bailey and Mr. Schroeder, were awarded to outstanding athletes. They contained the athletes' pictures and engraved plates.

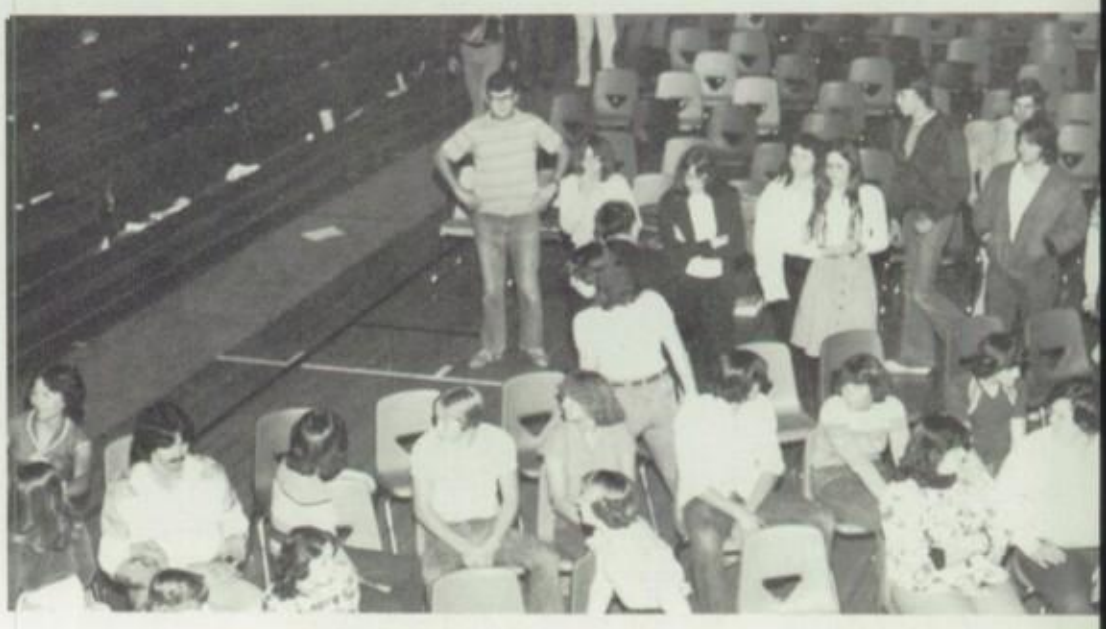
Teachers not only gave out awards but received them, too. Barb Rust and Diane Pass present a necklace to Mrs. Warren for being a great pom pon sponsor.

Kristi Schrock happily receives her cheerleading charm from Sponsor Mrs. Wood.

While presenting a senior trophy for Cross Country, Mr. Sparacino congratulates Carl Saddler on a job well done.

Where do we go from here?

While Seniors Barb Stembel, Kathy Sowards, and Kenny Seramur exit out of the gym, Greg Steffel pauses to receive a handshake.



Graduating Seniors chat with one another before the rehearsal begins.

On Friday, Seniors competed to ee who could get their sign out lips filled out first, but once the ime came to walk out the door ome experienced mixed feelings f joy and sorrow. Three days of reedom and fun followed until hey returned to receive awards nd report cards during the Awards Day ceremonies. As the nderclassmen left for home, graduates began the traditional ehearsal. Afterwards, they tayed to decorate the gym for the Commencement ceremonies.

That evening, after adjusting their caps and gowns, Seniors proceeded into the gym before proud parents and friends. Following the speeches by Valedictorian, Mary Ann Schultz, and Salutatorian, Beth Good, diplomas were presented, and the Class of '79 moved their tassels to the right.

Between Classes

December 18 - Christmas is right around the corner. Homework has really slacked off. Even the teachers aren't in their usual bad moods. Too bad there hasn't been any blizzards yet, so we could get out of school. Well, if we have to be in school, at least everyone's in a holiday spirit because decorating got us all out of classes. Everyone is looking forward to vacation (and exams afterwards, what a bummer!). I wonder if Mom and Dad got me what I wanted for Christmas - a new car!

Tim Schwanke plans his strategy as Mark Gray makes his next move.

During a pom pon practice, Barb Rust and Jeanne Dolasinski sneak away to say "Cheese".

The audience seems captivated as they watch Tom Sternberg, Wes Gilson, and Mark Richardson perform.

Issues and Activities

Along with student direction, the Student Council and the National Honor Society provided two dances, one to kickoff the new year and another to end it.

The Student Council built a float, capturing first prize at the Homecoming festivities, and performed a skit to boost school spirit at one of the pep sessions. One of the student government problems they tackled was changing the requirements for class president. Two services, which some students don't realize they also provide, are the school scrapbook and the activity board, put together by Mark Gray and Kim Hall.

Tickets for a basketball raffle were sold by the National Honor Society with the help of thirteen new members. To belong to this group it requires more than intelligence. Those who have received this honor will be recognized at graduation by the distinctive gold chord and tassel.

Career Minded Get Ready for Office World

For the first time, students in OEA and Junior OEA participated in their own "Spirit Week." From February 4-10, the entire country participated to let everyone know about the Office Education Association. Here, the members chose to hold different events for each day. The first day was snowed out, but they shoveled their way back and came to school dressed their best on the very next day. "I Belong" badges were worn on the following day by each club member and on the fourth they had a chain-link contest where the winner, Karen Phillips, won the album of her choice. They finished the week with Teacher Hospitality Day.

During the course of the year both associations compete in business events at district, state, and national levels. District competition was held on February 10, at the Gary Career Center and State on March 31 at Indianapolis. Edna McCann was this year's District I Secretary and managed to get a first in Job Interview II and a fourth in Extemporaneous Speech II at district competition, and Raellen White received a third in Extemporaneous Speech I and a sixth in Prepared Verbal I. Both girls went on to state competition at Indianapolis.

Giving Their Support

The HHEC is very supportive in the sponsoring of many out-of-school activities. They assisted in the Homecoming Dance with members selling tickets, decorating the cafeteria, and baking batches of cookies. A tour of Porter Memorial Hospital, a spring banquet, and a gong show, co-sponsored with Booster Club, were also planned.

Supporting the school in another aspect is the crossing guard. He makes certain that each and every student who walks to school arrives there safely.

Some girls work during their free hours in the office. An hour, maybe two, is spent by each girl selling school supplies or running errands for teachers. The girls show a common courtesy to anyone who asks for their assistance.

The book you're looking for in the library can be found quickly with some help from a library aide. Putting the books back in their proper shelves and checking books and magazines out to students are just a few of the many duties they perform. The library aides help to make the library system run smoother.

Band Says, Hi Mickey Parading in Florida

The highlight of the year for the High School Band was their trip to Orlando, Florida. The high school students and a few from the Jr. High paraded in front of the Walt Disney Castle during their six day trip. The band marched to the music of "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band". Making the trip possible were money making projects, such as, selling cheese and sausage, and fruit, having a paper drive and bake sale, and also two cake raffles. New uniforms are big news too. After fifteen years the old uniforms are going to retire or be handed down to the oncoming Jr. High. The new uniforms being purchased are red and white concert outfits, and also purchased were red and white marching outfits for summer.

Beth Good and Pam Fieser try on uniforms before the fall concert.

Programs and Contests

Jerry Fox, choir director, took part of his students to the De-Motte Senior Citizens Home. The students enjoyed singing carols for them. The second time they had just as much fun. A group of six students, consisting of three boys and girls, went to state contest and triumphantly returned with a first place.

The pompon squad had a fun time over the year too. During the half time of the J.V. and Varsity home games, the pompons put on some great performances.

Imagination is the Main Ingredient

To think is to imagine. It takes a lot of imagination to be a scientist or an artist. You must be able to think ahead or imagine what something will be like before you create it. Besides imagination, a knowledge of scientific and artistic ingredients is necessary to take the imagined idea and give it realistic form. How much H^2O goes in or how much yellow pigment should be mixed with the blue are questions solved by Art Club and Science Club members.

All Science Club members got involved in the annual Science Fair so that they would be able to participate in the club's trips and spring dinner party. The Science Club traveled to the Museum of Natural History. The Science Fair is held in the high school balcony.

You can tell what projects the Art Club worked on if you have been in the Commons. Barb Robertson created the design which covers the east wall of the Commons. Club members painted it during March. Other club projects were back-drops for the plays, printing t-shirts for the students, and an Art Fair which ended the year.

Pawns, Targets & Crops Take Time

A new trap house was constructed in the southeast corne of the school grounds by most of the Rifle Club members. With the construction of the new Ag. building, the rifle range moved to a new location there. New club members attended classes with Mr. Schiek to learn the rules before shooting.

Each week, Chess Club members met in Mr. Lawson's room to play matches against each other. The challengers moved up in rank to play equally ranked opponents from other schools. They had eight inter-school matches with a record of two wins, five loses, and one tie.

A forty-acre field of corn was planted and harvested by the Future Farmers of America. They also held a Father/Son Banquet.

Stepping into the Footlights

Budding drama students put on two plays under the instruction of dramatic coaches Mrs. Welge and Mrs. Grabill. The lead roles in the who-dun-it murder/mystery "Agatha Christie Made Me Do It" were played by Naydeen Knapp as Cindy Haines and Wes Gilson as Monte Brainard. Alan Kirkpatrick played the role of an ex-police officer. Sam Sears, played by Tom Sternberg, was the lawyer friend who tried to help Monte prove that he was not demented. A chambermaid, alias secret investigative agent Heidi Van Sessen, and a stuffy, formal butler, Mark Richardson, added comic humor to the play.

The unforgettable stage thriller "Cry of the Banshee" displayed the talents of Elizabeth Ruschak as Mrs. Whitman, Denny Osburn as Roderick, and Naydeen Knapp as Maureen. It was clear that Naydeen and Tom Sternberg, did not believe in the curse of the Banshee even though Elizabeth, played by Heidi Van Sessen, was murdered. The suspense ended when Denny, the evil spirit, kills Carol Stonehouse and vanishes into thin air.

Elizabeth Ruschak patiently sits while Mrs. Grabill braids her hair during a dress rehearsal for the play.

Editors and Actors

The Thespians received six new members at an initiation in December. They also planned a dinner party and a trip to see "The Tempest," but weather altered their plans. To be a Thespian, Drama Club members must be active enough to receive points for various dramatic responsibilities such as roles in plays and working on sets and costumes.

Responsibility is a major part of being a Seneca Staff member. They have to take pictures and meet deadlines, sometimes requiring long lonely hours in a big dark school. The Staff took a trip to Franklin College for a seminar in October, attending two classes of their choice from various Journalism fields. They also attended an IHSPA Convention in April at the Purdue Calumet Campus.

Get an Out-of-This Country Look on Life

Disco dances and dinners have kept the students of Spanish and German clubs busy throughout the year. German Club helped sponsor two disco dances, one for Homecoming and one on March 9. In November, German Club had a dinner at the high school. Mary Ann Schultz and Marci McMahon helped prepare food at Mrs. Ennsmann's and Mrs. Schultz's homes, then they brought it to school and served it buffet style. In October, the group went to Great America, not only for the exciting rides, but to see the German dancers and musicians performing there.

Spanish Club went to Mrs. Franzman's for hors d'oeuvres before going to Pepe's Tacos in Valparaiso. The clubs were also spending a lot of time on their floats for Homecoming. Spanish Club had a large paper-mached bull with Scott Dillabaugh dressed as a bullfighter pulling it. German Club put Patti Schrock and Lori Johnson on a wagon surrounded by flowers representing their club.

Besides having a lot of fun, Spanish and German clubs are learning the language and customs of the Spanish and German people.

This is one big happy family! Spanish club members and piñatas.

The Roar of the Crowd

Two bits! Four bits! Six bits! A dollar! All for Hebron stand up and holler! Yeah! Rah! That was one cheer heard when you were at a basketball game. That cheer and many others drove the players to many victories. The Booster Club was smaller this year, but they sure were loud when they needed to be. At the PCC Tourney where the cheering blocks were judged, Hebron came in fourth place with the theme Bat Hawk. The skit consisted of Bat Hawk, Robin, and many of his enemies such as Egg Head, Riddler, Joker and a few others. Bat Hawk and Robin defeated all opponents and sent them all up the river. The Booster Club and Cheerleaders put in many long hours in preparation for every game. Booster Club members also had a hand in picking the '80 Cheerleaders when they voted for the ones which displayed the most spirit and the best stunts.

Cheering Keeps You On Your Toes!!

Our spirit has no limit . . . That is what goes over the minds of the cheerleaders as they do their grueling stretch exercises before the games. Each of the girls has certain obligations to meet as cheerleaders. They must have a lot of spirit to keep the crowds going at games. They must attend all practices and basketball events, but cheerleading isn't just all work and no fun. The cheerleaders attend camp each summer and learn new cheers and chants for the following year. During the basketball season they try to keep the players spirits up by making posters, run throughs, and even making cookies.

Ourrr teammm will go! Team go, go, go! Spirit does rub off. Pam Fieser, Teresa Sheets, Debbie Levrio, Kris Herma, and Lisa Garnett involve the fans in a cheer to rouse the team spirit.

Ready for Action

January 17 - Snow! Snow! Snow! Everyone's awfully tired of snow although it did get us out of school a lot. Last week we started out with a broken water pipe so school was called off for a day and a half. Unfortunately, semester exams weren't called off, but rescheduled for the end of the week. Friday we went for a half day (what a relief!) to let the teachers grade exams. Now, after being stuck inside for four days, we end up back in school again to find out the good or bad news. Whatever it is, it's sure going to be a long time until spring break - 65 days and counting.

Dave Pogue reaches for the jump-ball and gives the tip-off to his teammates, Jeff Patz and John Levrio.

After a drive down the court, Marla Terpstra tries for a lay-up shot.

A jog around the track conditions Cary Bolinger, Chuck Ventura, Mark Asher, and Steve Hale for a future race.

Serve! Jan Mitch is poised to ace the ball.

Deserving Isn't Always Winning

The Girls Varsity had a pretty even season, but the Boys Varsity was not quite as fortunate. The boys team, behind the direction of Mike Lord, their new coach, ended their season with a hard fought loss to Westville in PCC action. The Washington game slipped through their hands as a deserving team lost a well played match. The girls and Coach Scroggins won more games than they lost. The girls' record may be deceiving, because the girls did win their sectional by defeating three tough teams. Their last game of the year was agains Highland in the regional.

Before the Morgan game is played Alan Asher and Doug Osburn get together on their routine with a warm-up of sets, spikes, and serves.

Learning to Attack the Ball

Both J.V. teams took on new coaches. Coach Lord took over the direction of the J.V. boys team and led them through a tough season. After ending the girls' J.V. season, the new coach, Miss Yoder, said, "Although we did not have a winning season, we had a good bunch of hard working girls." The Jr. High teams experienced the difficulties of beginners.

Hustling to the End

Although the Hawks didn't produce a winning season, they did capture second place in the PCC Tourney. They were picked to go out in the first round, but instead pulled out three successful wins against La-Crosse, Hanover, and Westville. Then they lost to Boone Grove in the final game.

The Westville game was very close all the way through and went into overtime. The players, the Coach, and the fans all felt a win was near. The cheerleaders frantically led the fans in spirit rousing cheers.

During those tense moments, Debbie Levrio, a Varsity Cheerleader, said, "I knew we were going to win this game even after the Westville cheerleaders told us that we would lose." Kris Herma, another Varsity Cheerleader, said, "Oh, man! I had faith in our team and I knew that we would win."

Another person who backed the team was their coach. Coac Lord very simply said, "I just fe that we would win it." The pla ers were the ones who really fe the pressure of such a close gam When asked how he felt whi playing ou that overtim Tim Busker r plied, "Ne vous! But, knew we cou win it!"

It's too late for the Boone Grove Wolves block Dave Pogue's shot. Tim Busker wa for a possible rebound.

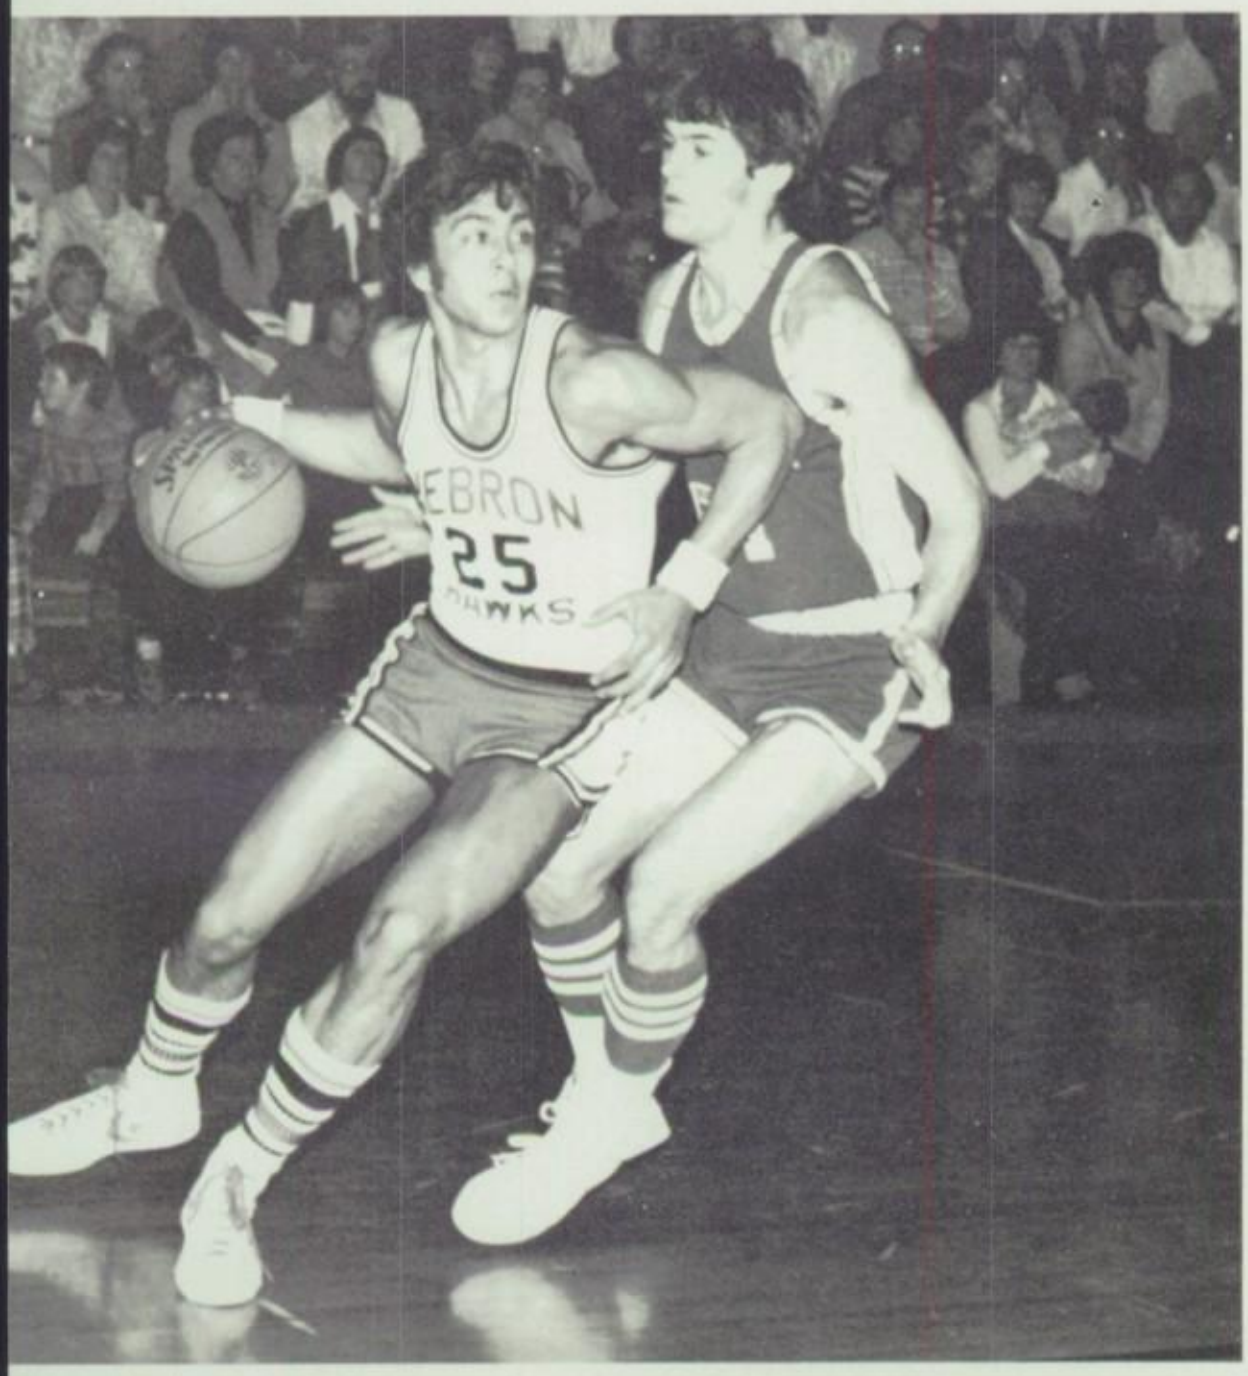
Rough Season Felt By Hawks



The Hawks felt frustration throughout a rough season as other area teams got their revenge when game after game toppled to their opponents. The Hawks spent the year rebuilding a young team. They began the season trying to run and work in the fast break. When that did not work for them, they slowed down the pace a little bit, trying to use the tall guys, Pogue and Reisinger. The team switched zone defenses several times throughout the season.

In the second game of the season, Kouts caught us napping in the second half. At the end of the first half we had a lead of 12 points. Feeling they had a sure thing, the team came out flat in the second half. This was the first game lost to Kouts in 10 years.

John Levrio drives the baseline looking for an open man.

Winning Season Sees Many Close Calls

The Girls Varsity came away with another winning season, but their record of 12-6 doesn't show the close calls. Of all the games they lost, only one was over five points, but their highest scoring was 66-36 over Morgan. A few injuries made some of the going rough, but the girls pulled through. High scorers of the season were Marla Terpstra with a total of 337 with an 18 point game average and Barb Stembel, second high, with a total of 275 and a 15 point game average. High rebounder was Marla Terpstra with 254 total and Laurie Fisher had 32 assists.

New Coaches Produce Winners

The J.V. boys ended their season, for the most part, as winners. The record proves that they lost in only four games by six points over all four games. An average season was played by the girls with an all-around strong team effort. Mike Broughton and Sue Yoder were two new coaches attained for the teams. The coaches commented on their first season by mentioning that, "The boys worked very hard throughout the season."—Mike Broughton; "They were a very hard working group."—Sue Yoder.

Freshmen Have Successful Season

As usual, the freshmen team didn't receive nearly as much recognition as the Varsity received. They worked just as hard as the Varsity learning fundamentals and perfecting offensive and defensive techniques.

Mr. Sparacino coached both the C and D teams. The D team had a 4-2 season, and the C team went 12-4 on the season. Teamwork and balanced scoring spelled the difference for the young Hawks. The team showed great improvement during the season. The four losses were to Lowell, South Central, Valparaiso, and Aylesworth in Portage. Most games were won in the second half as the Hawks played super defense. They outscored their opponents by a 10 point average during the course of the season.

Tim Hough was the leading scorer with 203 total points, followed by Tim McKay with 156.

John Stalbaum combines skill and accuracy in an attempt to make a free-throw basket and help the Freshmen team to achieve another victory. Jeff Pigg, Rich Higgins, and Steve Johnson are sure of the results.

Speed, Hustle, & Break

The seventh grade girls and boys basketball teams both had winning seasons. The boys lost only two games out of thirteen. At the DeMotte Christian Tourney, they advanced to the finals, and they won the South County Tourney. The seventh grade girls showed continuous improvement in their defense with no team scoring more than 18 points against them. The players were very well matched.

As the records show, the eighth grade teams differed—the girls had a great season, but the boys were not as successful. The girls were characterized by speed and hustle, and their fast break scored many points.

Stamina and Endurance

Running is fast becoming the ation's number one past time. his enthusiasm has been shown the size of our track and cross untry teams.

Cross country means just what says. The guys on the team run ross the country instead of on a ack. Eight people lettered in this ort.

The boys mile relay team, hich consisted of Mark Zuchvski, Rob Norris, Pete Blank, d Tim McKay, was greatly improved. They received a first in all but two meets.

Five girls went to the Sectional at Lake Station. They were Laurie Fisher, Marla Terpstra, Lori Johnson, and Sheila Kennedy.

On all track teams the efforts of each individual show in the scoring and the winning. The individual gets a lot of glory in running. They are the ones that get the ribbons and the medals. They are the ones that make the team work.

The Junior High boys track team really triumphed in their triangular meet against Kouts and Westville. Bob Ross received a letter for the highest point total for the season with a 125. Dale Kaczmarski broke the mile record with a time of 5:32.5 against Hanover Central. The record was previously held by Mark Gray in 1977 with a time of 5:33.

Dale Kaczmarski also ran a record time for the cross country team at Valparaiso, and placed fifth in the conference meet. The team came in fifth in their P.C.C. meet.

The Junior High girls tra team made it through a rea rough season. They battled b weather conditions and had contend with the problem of track. They worked in the parki lot or in the halls, wherever th could practice, and all of th meets were held away at oth schools. Their coach, Mr. Baile said, "This was probably the b season ever for the Junior Hi girls. There are some 8th gra girls who will help in the hi school next year."

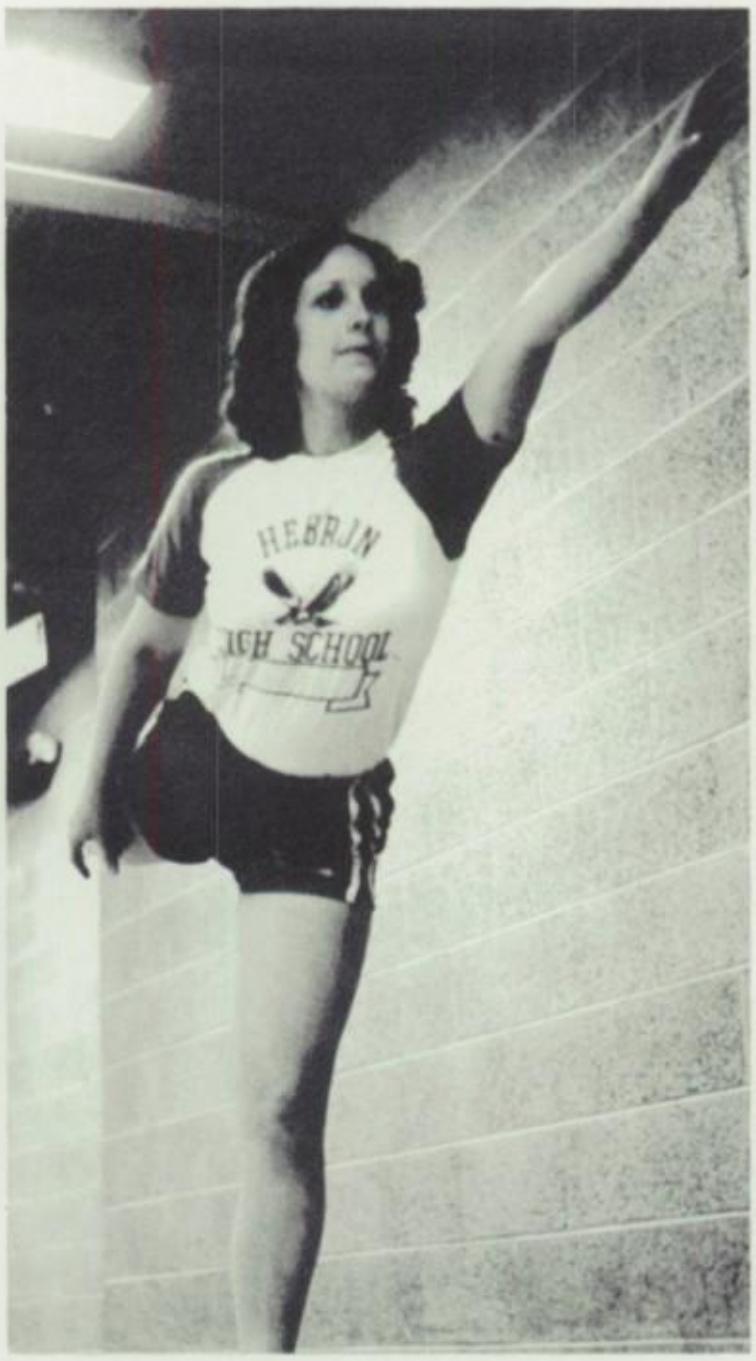
Practice May Take You Closer To Perfect

Tennis was a new sport that as added with Donna Baltas as e new coach. Since this was the rst year for tennis, a team was ot formed, but they did get some ractice on the new tennis courts.

Gymnastics wasn't the most opular sport, but the determina- on of six girls kept the sport ive. They worked together on routines; however, there weren't enough girls to participate in meets.

The golf team had a rough time practicing due to bad weather but came through by placing third in the Hanover Invitational. Tim Busker won the Medalist Award for best score.



Karen Mosley perfects her routine on the balance beam.

Experience and Determination

A tough season opened for the varsity baseball team with a double header against Roosevelt. The game had to be forfeited, because it was discovered that one of their players was not eligible. Scheduled opening games battled wet conditions, but a late spring finally brought better weather. With only four seniors on the team, many of our players were inexperienced.

The Jr. High had a close season winding up with a 5-4 record. The players had an exceptionally good season, which included a no-hitter pitched against Kouts Gold by Rod Saksa. The season also included a game against Morgan, which saw nine triples, three doubles, and one home run. Th team kept batting averages, wit Chris Hernandez leading th club. All in all, the players had a exciting season.

All of Us

April 2- After being gone over Spring vacation it was nice to get back and see my friends again. We caught up with the latest news and gossip by gabbing between and during classes. I'm jealous of all my friends showing off their vacation tans. Sure wish I could have gone with them and seen something besides all this snow. I've been watching for the slightest sign of spring. Spring fever is catching up with me. Well, it's back to the old grind again.

New Faces in Class

Every new year starts out with new students' faces, but this year we have eight new teachers. We have a new teacher to guide us, one to teach us arts and crafts, one to show us facts and figures, and one to give us a new knowledge of the library. Two new ones are here to help with our grammar and one to get us in good physical shape. We also have a new teacher to help PVE students get on their way.

Teaching is Guidance

Teachers are paid to teach, but some times they do a little more. They can give advice on personal problems in and out of school. Some students need help choosing a career and others seek advice on how to get along with their parents. A few students will even discuss their problems about boyfriends or girlfriends. They often share their time sponsoring an after school activity. The night before the hall-decorating contest many sponsors were found in the halls as late as 6:00 or 7:00. Believe it or not, some teachers even like students!

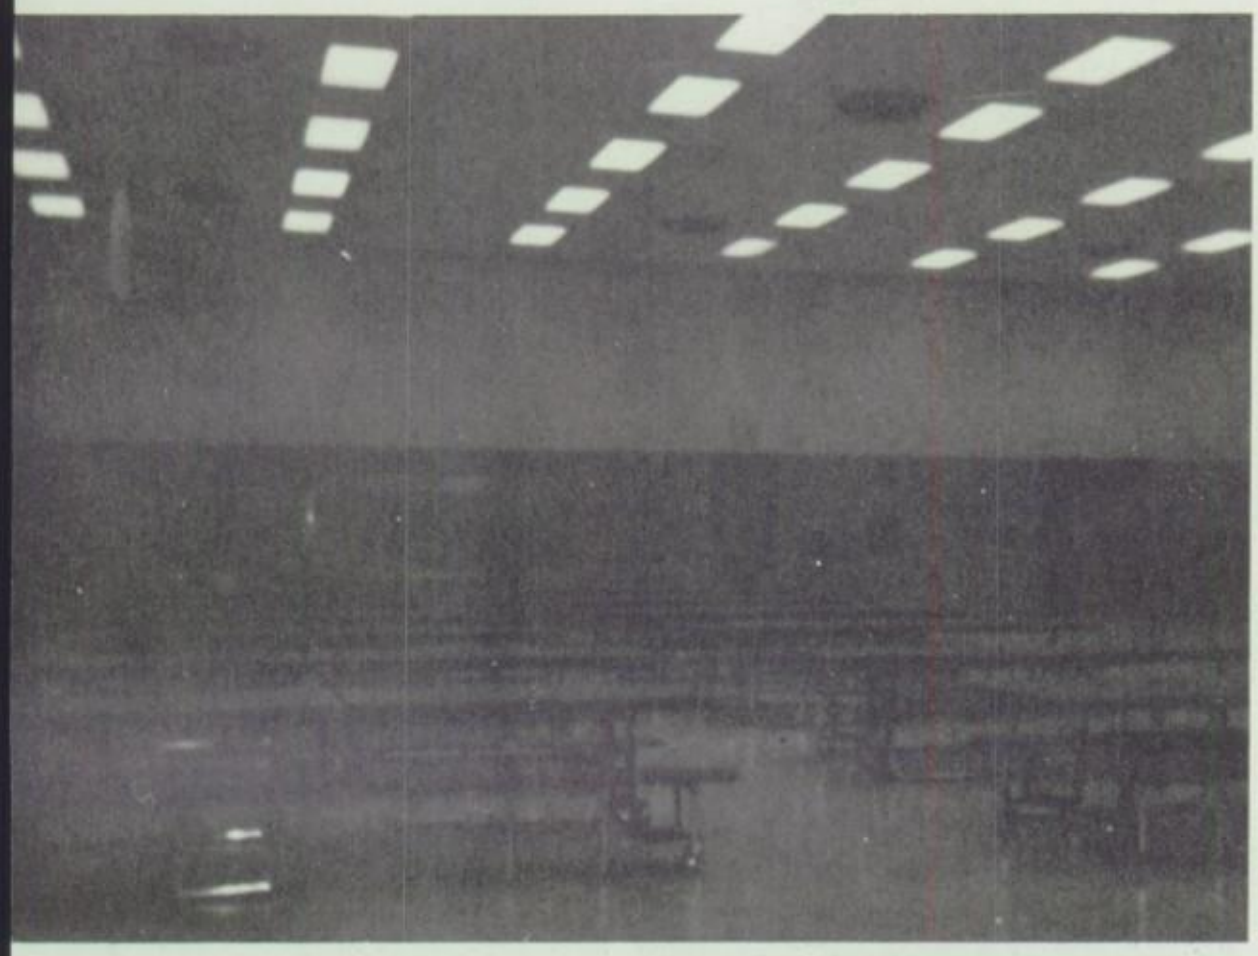
Staff Keeps School Moving



Every year the bus drivers, janitors, and the cooks return to help the student body and faculty. The cooks came back to a new cafeteria that was approximately three times as large as the old one. Instead of being used only for lunch purposes, the cafeteria was initiated by a dance. Day after day the janitors did a great job cleaning up after everyone else's mess. The bus drivers fought a hard battle against never ending snow storms which made the roads impassable and caused the water pipes to break.

Now all the new cafeteria needs is some hungry students!

Mr. Zuchowski is quite a handyman. Anyone seeing him work on this door might wonder if he was trying to fix the lock or break into the room.

The Last of the 70's

The end of the 70's are here and the Seniors of 1979 are going out in style. In a year filled with fun and excitement the Seniors won the Homecoming Olympics, the hall decorating for the second year in a row, and also the rowdy award, which was well deserved. Dave Pogue and Barb Stembel were the outstanding athletes in the class this year as both of them were chosen by the Basketball Digest as All-State Honorable Mention.

One day during Homecoming week in Farm Shop, a couple of Seniors decided that they should do something out of the ordinary. Mike, John, and Gregg thought that ties on every Senior would be unusual, but that long underwear with gym shorts over them would be quite unique. One of the class sponsors, Mr. Lawson, wore a tie and a T-shirt with sweat pants and tennis shoes. There was only one problem, Mr. Broughton told the Seniors to put their clothes back on until noon, which they did. The setback didn't affect their class spirit a bit, as the mighty Seniors won the Olympics.

The Senior class had a few problems throughout the year. They had some class meetings after school due to the confusion they caused, but after two meetings everything was back to normal. Their president, Allison Haag, was not eligible for the office, but the Seniors wanted her as their president. They didn't even know about the problem until half-way through the first semester. The second semester John Levrio became President and Tom Sternberg Vice-President. The other officers are Secretary Carol Stonehouse and Treasurer Donna Stokke. The Student Council Representatives are Mark Dinsmore, Harold Haberlin, Mary Ann Schultz, and Brenda Sternberg.

Super Seniors Shine

The time has come again, the time for school to begin; but before we know it, that time is at an end. For we are Seniors—Seniors here today, gone tomorrow, with memories of yesterday and more dreams that we borrow. By this I mean the dreams that we share. The dreams of peace and of love with no cost to bear. Take each day slowly—hold on to every precious minute as it ticks by, but remember—don't be discouraged; always try and try and try. For the dreams that we share are goals we have set—goals we want to accomplish and never regret. Enjoy Seniors, for we are young at heart. We are living on this earth quite freely, and in this school we are trying to become more smart. So look at yesterday and all the good times, look at today and what you search for you will find. Look in the future and always be true—because I am I, and you are you. With these thoughts in mind, keep your head up and your eyes twinkling and let your smile shine.

The Senior class chose the motto "We should be able at any moment to sacrifice what we are for what we could become." The class colors are light blue and silver, and the class flower is a white rose.

Juniors Anxiously Await 1980

The class of '80 was very busy this year. During Spirit Week they wore flannel shirts and suit coats, and stayed until 9:00 p.m. decorating their hall. They came in second place in the Olympics, cheered on by four male cheerleaders in uniform. They also spent months planning the Prom. Magazine sales were conducted and a cake raffle was held. They elected Leigh Ann Schnekenburger President, Jerry O'Neill Vice-President, Annemarie Kubiak Secretary, and Jack Pier Treasurer. Doug Earl, Kim Hall, and Carla Thurner are in Student Council.

Sophomores Present Steve Martin Style

It seems there's a difference of emotion towards the jello that contestants Naydeen Knapp and Scott Dillabaugh are to eat.

For the Homecoming Olympics most of the sophomore boys decided to wear arrows through their heads, an idea from Steve Martin. The girls wore nightgowns and brought stuffed animals. Both ideas were thought up in Geometry class during the free time that sometimes comes with a substitute teacher.

The sophomore class elected President Peter Blank, Vice-President Elizabeth Ruschak, Treasurer JoAnne Crane, Secretary Margaret Haberlin, and as Student Council Representatives, Mark Gray and Patty Andrews.

"We're # 1!" Sophomores cheer their team on at the Homecoming Olympics.

Freshmen Swing into Action

The freshman class started out with high hopes and great expectations of an exciting and fulfilling year. To begin the year they elected class officers. Cathy O'Neill was elected President, John Stalbaum was chosen for Vice-President, Diane Stiles for Secretary, and Jeff Uzzle was chosen Treasurer. Class representatives were Diane Kuhn, Steve Johnson, and Darryl Schultz. Homecoming representatives were Karen Mosley and her escort Tim Hough.

Lisa Burnette and John Lewandowski really put some action into the hula-hoop contest.

Curls are back, and Darryl's got 'em! Darryl Schultz shows his spirit by portraying a cheerleader for Spirit Week.

Frosh Pour on Spirit

A variety of new freshmen in all shapes and sizes exhibited great enthusiasm and spirit as they ventured into the new experiences of high school. The class of '82 was really fired up for the Homecoming Spirit Week and easily captured the Spirit Award at the first two Pep Sessions.

The hall was decorated by one of the largest freshmen crews ever put together. Working in shifts, they stayed from after school until six that night in order to complete the task.

The Freshmen held two cake raffles the first semester, and successfully reached their goal. They also had a roller skating party for the second semester.

Vivacious cheerleaders lead the class of '82 to capture the Spirit Award.

Sometimes We Crack!

These students—pardon me, and a teacher all have something in common. They are all the victims of schoolroom intoxication. In other words, too much of a good thing can be dangerous! Symptoms usually develop on exam week, or after the homework has really piled up. Teachers develop this disease too, mostly when they have a lot of papers to grade! Cures for this disease are rare, but there are a few. They are patience and endurance; most of us are blind to the cures and just seem to crack!

They call her flipper now. Diane Miller really flipped out during Homecoming week.

This is one wild and crazy woman! Mrs. Steve Martin—alias Mrs. Rosenwinkel.

The masked marauder is ready to zap you! Some students become dangerous when the pressure builds.

After changing the design on your yearbook page a million times, it's hard to tell which end is up. Mark Gray

Facing Something New

The seventh grade experienced the usual changes involved in moving into the high school. They learned how to make schedules, find their way from room to room, and succeed in opening their lockers before the time for class to begin. Pep sessions and the Homecoming Olympics were new to them and helped fire their school spirit. They also learned how to elect officers at class meetings. The officers are President Kristi Shrock, Vice-President Dale Kaczmarski, Secretary Leah Cunningham, and Treasurer Jackie Williams. Student Council Representatives are Julie Fisher, Alan Hanaway, and Scott Young.

Barb Crane leads the seventh grade class in a cheer at the Olympics with the help of Joyce Kubiak, Leah Cunningham, and Cheryl Ihnat.

On the Market

April 30 - Sitting in study hall, you can think of millions of things. One thought is that school will end in twenty-five days. This hour will end in twenty-five minutes. The Prom is really coming up fast. May sure will be busy with banquets, awards day, graduation, and open houses! April wasn't exactly slow, what with seeing "Cry of the Banshee", track meets, baseball games, and that glorious three day weekend. Its a mystery to me how I will ever find time to study for exams. Come to think of it, why do we even have exams?

The Casbon Electric store in Valparaiso was having a sale on its stereo components. Greg Pucka then went there to see if he could find anything that agreed with his budget.

With Easter close at hand, a customer stocks up for the big event by shopping at the Ben Franklin store in DeMotte.

A Hebron resident looks over some samples of Carpet Island's merchandise trying to decide which carpet she likes best.

In the back of Patz's Supermarket a few stock boys are listening attentively to some instructions being given.

MEN–WOMEN

See Europe or Hawaii
before you're 19.

Some of your friends will grab their diplomas and never venture away from home. Others in your graduating class will really go places–with the Army.

We mean exciting places like Hawaii and Europe.

Challenging places like Alaska and the Canal Zone.

Fascinating places like Korea.

If you join the Army and qualify, you can decide where you want to serve–and the skill training program right for you.

You'll be paid $419 to start. And you'll get 30 days paid vacation a year, in addition to your regular time off, to explore your surroundings.

There's a lot of world out there to see. It sure beats hanging around.

May 26—Sunset as seen from a country road one evening during a bike ride. It makes me think . . .

"Do not follow

where the path leads.

where there is no path

and leave a trail."

To a nice friend and a cool girl
Good luck in the years to come and Have fun with the guys friends always,
Carla
